MESD coping with rain

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Despite eight straight days of rain, Shang Greathouse was in high spirits Friday afternoon. In past years, that much rain would have spelled disaster for the Metro East Sanitary District, of which Greathouse is president. But, this year, Greathouse said, the MESD is already benefiting from the first full year of the $31 million rehabilitation project being done by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"We've got all the pump stations in great shape," Greathouse said. "And the ditch cleaning we've done so far is paying off. "Basically, as long as it rains, stops for six or eight hours, and then rains again we can keep up with it. We just need that six hours for it to run off."

Still, Greathouse said, early winter rain means early pumping and early electric bills to pay. "I just got a bill for $3,700," he said. "I'll fight it, of course, and take all my records in to show we haven't pumped enough to use $3,700. And I'll probably get a few bucks knocked off it in the end. But it's still a bill we've got to pay."

Readers have until 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 8, to submit a photograph of someone and their special smile. The entries should include a note with your name, the name of the person in the photo, the town where they live and a sentence about what makes that smile a winner.

Paint blamed for blood lead 5 percent above guidelines

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

There is good news and bad news for area residents from the Illinois Department of Public Health. The bad news is that preliminary results of an IDPH blood lead study show that just over 5 percent of area residents tested exceeded federal guidelines for blood lead levels considered safe.

The good news is that the remaining 95 percent had levels less than the threshold level — a level recently made more stringent by health officials.

While IDPH is not yet reaching any conclusions about the source of contamination, "There is an indication in all participants who exceeded safe levels of the existence of lead paint in the home," Tom Schafer of IDPH said.

The study of Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach and Eagle Park individuals living in or near a 55-block area surrounding a lead pile was conducted this summer by IDPH, the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta and St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The area has been proposed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for cleanup in the Taracorp/NL plant record of decision, including removal of all soil in the targeted area with lead concentration of 500 parts per million or more.

The 500 ppm figure has been attacked by local officials as arbitrary and unscientifically sound. The blood lead study is being used to try to determine how lead in the environment affects human health.

Exposure indicated in woman's death

A 79-year-old resident of a Granite City nursing home apparently died of exposure Friday morning, after apparently wandering from the facility.

The body of Velma F. Hurst, a resident of Colonial Haven Nursing Home, was discovered without signs of life in a field behind Partney Estates at 8:37 a.m. Friday, authorities said.

Ken Kabureck, administrator for Colonial Haven Nursing Home, said he is unsure when Hurst may have left the building.

Coroner Investigator Roger Smith pronounced Hurst dead at the scene at 9:25 a.m. Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke said an autopsy was performed Friday afternoon, but the cause and time of death was not determined pending further investigation by a coroner pathologist.

However, according to a press release issued by the Granite City Police Department, "the tentative cause of death has been ruled as exposure related."

An investigation has been initiated, Capt. Kip Pomeroy said. Kabureck, when asked the last time Hurst was seen by nursing home employees, said, "There are a number of things I have to check on ... before I can determine what time I want to say."

Kabureck said the facility regularly checks residents at midnight, 2 a.m. and 4 a.m., and awakens residents for breakfast at 5 a.m. But Kabureck said he is unsure of the time Hurst left because the facility keeps no written records of those checks and because staff members on duty at the time Hurst apparently walked out the door, between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m., were not available Friday afternoon.

Asked if Hurst was present at the 5 a.m. breakfast awakening, Kabureck said, "She gets herself up for breakfast ... She could (See DEATH, Page 12A)

11 vying in election

Eleven candidates are on the ballot for three positions on the School District 9 Board of Education.

The race is one of two contested school elections in the area. In Venice, four candidates are seeking three seats.

There is no opposition in either the Madison school election or the local BAC district.

With continued cuts in federal and state assistance, and the needs facing the Granite City district, officials have said the Nov. 5 school board election may be the most important election in this area in several years.

The issues facing the district include renovation or replacement of the high school and an anticipated large turnover in administrative and teaching staff over the next three years.

A list of candidates' names, in the order they will appear on the Nov. 5 ballot, follows: Rick W. Dickerson, Mack G. Johnson, Jim Noeth, Lawrence R. Earney, Alan J. Schmidt, Robert D. (Bob) Bell, Jeff Parker, Carolyn Nemeth, Colleen A. Sheik, John Petish Sr. and Kerry Ervay.

The four candidates in Venice are: incumbents Wilbert Glasper, Gregory Katana and Janet Wiley and challenger Carolyn Wilson. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Happy ending Pharmacist's job trail goes full circle

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

When a company closes most of its operations, a feeling of despair is experienced by employees, their families and their friends.

Frequently, an entire community is affected — a sense of loss saturates the town. Other businesses and customers mark each closing as a sign that more bad times are ahead.

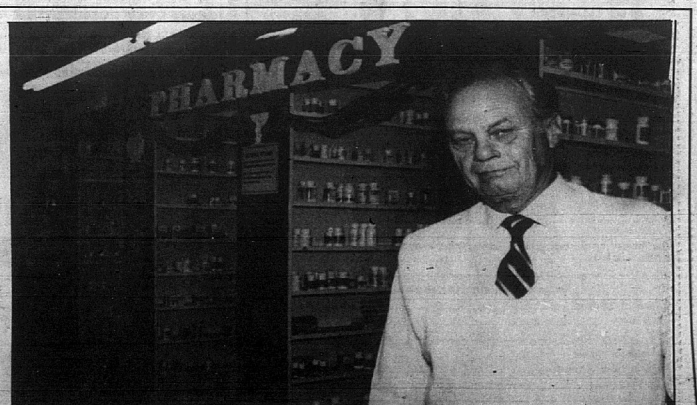

But sometimes there is a happy ending. Harry Dortch was saddened when Reese Drug Stores closed most of its retail businesses last December and he lost his job after 4½ years. He is 61 years old.

"Take heart," Dortch says today. "There is something out there for you, so don't give up."

"The thing is to hustle and find something else," Dortch did find something else. He is back in the same Bellemore Village Shopping Center building and holds the same job he had held years ago — store manager. Now it is Hook's Drug Store, 3216 Nameoki Road, that he manages.

"Like a lot of other people know who have lost their jobs, the experience was very traumatic," Dortch said Friday.

"I'd never had another job except with Reese (See ENDING, Page 12A)

Faulty furnace caused carbon monoxide poisoning, suit says

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A Madison woman has filed suit against her former landlord and several heating and cooling companies for injuries she suffered two years ago as a result of an allegedly faulty furnace in her apartment.

The lawsuit was filed Oct. 28 by attorney Robert Carter. In the suit, Marcella Grieve claims that she was treated for carbon monoxide poisoning on Nov. 3, 1989, a week after she complained to her landlord, Stephen Wilson, about the furnace in her apartment at 1001 McCambridge Ave.

The suit alleges that Grieve first turned on her furnace Oct. 25, 1989, after which she suffered a throbbing head and dizziness. Grieve told Wilson of the incident and became sick again a day or two later after Wilson inspected the furnace, the suit said.

On Nov. 3, 1989, the suit claims that Grieve was told that the furnace had been taken care of but that, after the unit was turned on, she was taken to the emergency room and treated for carbon monoxide poisoning.

Grieve is seeking $15,000 in damages from Wilson and each of several other defendants including Jerry Webb of Granite City, Illinois Power Co., to whom she allegedly reported a gas leak, two American Furnace/Singer Air Conditioning Co. offices, and American Home Heating and Air Conditioning of Florissant, Mo.

Grieve is also seeking $100,000 in punitive damages from Wilson and Webb, claiming that the two destroyed evidence of the faulty furnace after she threatened legal action. Webb denies the allegations. Wilson could not be reached for comment.

According to the suit, Grieve continues to suffer from headaches, memory loss, confusion, ear-ringing, muscle spasms and breathing difficulties.

Jury chosen for Presson

A jury has been selected for the trial of Ron Presson, former executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Tourism Bureau, and the trial is now scheduled to begin next Monday.

Defense attorney Ralph Mendelsohn said jury selection was completed Friday. According to prosecutors, Mendelsohn had discussed plea negotiations in the case on Monday with Madison County State's Attorney William Haine.

"I always like to explore all the options, but it appears the case will go to trial Nov. 4," Mendelsohn said.

Mark Von Nida, Haine's administrative assistant, said that Haine rejected Monday's negotiations, which included attempts to reduce the charges against Presson. Von Nida said that Assistant State's Attorney Duane Bailey has done extensive work on the case and is ready for trial.

Presson is accused of converting $10,000 in bureau funds to his personal use.

Prosecutors trying to close book on Paula Sims' appeal

MOUNT VERNON — A best-selling book about Paula Sims might be entertaining reading but has no place in the appeal of her first-degree murder conviction, prosecutors contend.

The state filed a written objection Wednesday to Sims' motion that the 5th District Appellate Court consider the book as it decides her appeal.

The book, Precious Victims, is not the kind of evidence an appellate court can legally consider, Gerry Arnold, a staff attorney with the appellate prosecutor's office, argues in the objection.

The book, published several weeks ago, was never presented to the trial court and, thus, cannot be considered in the appeal, the state argues.

"None of the statements made in the book were made under oath or as a representation to a court by an officer of the court," the state says. "Rather, the book was written for the purpose of financial gain, and the authors may well have taken 'literary license' with what is portrayed in the book."

Don Weber, the former Madison County assistant state's attorney who prosecuted Sims, and St. Louis Post-Dispatch reporter Charles Bosworth Jr., wrote the paperback.

Sims argues that the book corroborates her claims that she was denied a fair trial through prosecutorial misconduct, withholding of evidence and perjured testimony. She was convicted last year of murdering her 6-week-old daughter, Heather, in 1989.

The state argues that statements Sims wishes to portray as "admissions" by Weber could have been made by Bosworth. Also raised were these additional arguments:

If the book contains newly discovered evidence, it must be presented through other procedures established by law.

The book does not support a claim that the state used perjured testimony.

Most of Sims' claims of misconduct were asserted during her trial or in her appellate brief, without resorting to the book.

Weber's motives for prosecuting Sims as he did are irrelevant if Sims received a fair trial.

Even if Weber at the time of trial intended to write the book, his intention "neither demonstrated an improper motive in conducting the prosecution nor constituted a conflict of interest."

Sims' motion alleges the book contains strong evidence that her conviction was "a direct result of prosecutorial misconduct and intentional deception by the state to dramatize and sensationalize this case for reasons of private glory and monetary gain."

The motion claims the book shows authorities improperly withheld evidence from the defense, failed to protect Sims from the harmful effects of publicity and intentionally generated publicity that adversely affected her right to a fair trial.

Steve Norris, deputy director of the appellate prosecutor's office, said the court probably would not rule on Sims' motion for at least two weeks.

Sims, 32, is serving a life prison term for Heather's murder. She was also sentenced to five years in prison on charges of obstructing justice and concealment of the 1986 homicidal death of her infant daughter Loralei.

Authors are writing on another murder

By Angie Cairns
Staff writer

The New York Times best-seller list includes "Precious Victims" by Don Weber and Charles Bosworth Jr.

Released just several weeks ago, "Precious Victims" about the Paula Sims case as told by those close to it, moved up to the number seven slot.

The book was number 10 on the list the previous week.

"The almost instant success of 'Precious Victims' wasn't a total surprise to Weber."

"We thought it was a good book and apparently people agree with us," Weber said.

The book is based on the disappearances of Paula Sims' two young daughters several years apart but under strikingly similar circumstances.

Both children were later found dead, and Sims is serving a life sentence for the death of Heather, the second daughter.

Weber prosecuted the case and Bosworth, a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, covered it for his newspaper.

"We hoped there would be some national interest but I didn't expect it to go this quickly," Bosworth said.

The first printing of the paperback has already sold out and a second printing of 350,000 books is on the way, Weber said.

"We've had a lot of positive reaction, which is encouraging," Bosworth said. "I've had a lot of people say 'I've ruined their weekend (because they can't put the book down)'."

The book has caught so much national attention that Weber and Bosworth sold option rights to Lantieri to make a New York to create a made-for-television movie, Weber said.

The option rights will allow the company one year to find a network to sponsor the film. After a sponsor is found, Weber and Bosworth will receive the rest of the money for selling the rights.

Because "Precious Victims" deals with a sensitive subject, Bosworth said, the movie version will not be offensive.

"We worked very hard at keeping the book as tasteful as possible," Weber said. "I hope that any television production would be done in keeping with that goal."

"I don't see them (a television network) buying something that would be real, real tacky," he said.

Despite the book's sudden and enormous success, Weber and Bosworth have not had much time for celebrating. They are hard at work on book number two.

This next creation will be about the Karla Brown murder, from 1978 and the subsequent trial and conviction of her killer. Both Weber and Bosworth had also been close to this case.

Both authors are a bit wary about the chances of this second venture. Will they strike gold twice in a row?

"It's sort of scary, because how are you going to beat this?" Weber said.

But both Weber and Bosworth feel the Karla Brown case is also excellent material.

"I believe this could be every bit as good as 'Precious Victims,'" Bosworth said.

Artist to appear at Wilson School

Sylvia Wallach will hold a two-day music workshop at Wilson Elementary School on Wednesday, Nov. 6, and Thursday, Nov. 7.

An artist and educator, Wallach captivates her audiences from preschool to senior citizens with her love for and energetic approach to music and the arts.

The workshop will include a morning in-service program for members of the Granite City School District's Fine Arts Committee and an afternoon hands-on demonstration with the children.

The afternoon session demonstrates how music and its interrelation with other subjects works within the state-mandated fine arts curriculum that makes music, drama, dance/movement and visual arts available to all kindergarten through sixth grade students.

Wallach, a professional music educator, composer and consultant throughout the United States, Canada and Australia for more than 20 years, has many credentials.

She has worked with administrative and teaching staffs, students, parents and other community members to develop and experience learning through the arts.

The artist/teacher offers music as a vehicle to open young minds to the additional options of active learning.

Wallach has mastered the art of getting children excited about learning and she offers a contemporary/upscale program.

She believes children should experience, not just observe, music and the arts, educators said.

The two-day music workshop presentation is funded by the $13,999 K-6 Creative Arts Grant awarded to the school district this year by the Curriculum Improvement Division of the Illinois State Board of Education.

The grant also provides funds for all substitute teachers needed for the participating members of the Fine Arts Committee.

Kindergarten through third grade pupils will participate in demonstrations on Wednesday, starting at 12:30 p.m., with fourth, fifth and sixth grade students viewing the demonstrations on Thursday afternoon, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

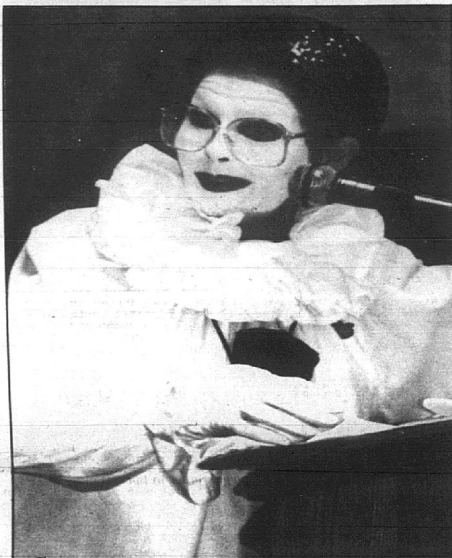

Time is reserved following each afternoon's demonstration for Fine Arts Committee members to participate in a question and answer session.

United Way reaches goal

Spirited Tri-Cities Area United Way volunteers and contributors celebrated a successful 1991 fund-raising campaign at the final report on Thursday. Since it was Halloween, several ghosts, goblins and witches joined in the celebration of reaching the goal of $1,085,000. Above, witch Judy White, United Way coordinator, gives campaign chairman, Richard Kearns, a "hand" for raking in all the contributions during the campaign. At right, clown Rosemarie Brown reads a poem in honor of the campaign division chairman. The total of $1,085,000 is not final — there are several companies and contributors who have not yet completed their campaigns or reported their results. Twenty-three agencies and more than 60 health and human care programs receive support from the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

Dispatcher sued in Madison jail death

The former wife of an inmate who hanged himself in a Madison jail cell has filed a wrongful-death lawsuit against the dispatcher who was on duty at the time.

Martha Dyanne Payne of Collinsville seeks in excess of $15,000 in damages from Madison police dispatcher Dennis Mize on behalf of her 12-year-old son, Christopher Hicks.

The suit was filed Thursday in Madison County Circuit Court by attorney Randall Steele. Steele said a suit against the city of Madison is pending.

Mize, 37, of Madison, pleaded guilty to an official misconduct charge Oct. 15 in connection with the death.

Mize was charged Aug. 28, a week after a coroner's inquest into the death of Stephen Hicks, 34, of Meadowbrook. Mize will be sentenced following a presentencing investigation by the Department of Court and Probation Services.

Hicks was found dead in a Madison jail cell shortly after 4 a.m. Aug. 3.

During the inquest, Madison Police Lt. Paul Bargiel testified that Hicks and another prisoner in the next cell had not been checked on for more than three hours.

State law requires cell checks every half-hour, the suit says.

According to a coroner's report, Hicks had used a strip of blanket from the cell's bed to make a noose and then tied the other end onto a support bar of the cell about 7 feet, 2 inches in the air.

Hicks had been arrested in Cottage Hills on a warrant for failure to appear on a disorderly conduct charge filed by Madison Police.

Steele said Hicks also has two younger sons from another marriage who live in Texas. They are mentioned in, but not involved with, the suit.

DOC HUNTER SAFETY COURSE SCHEDULED LOCALLY

Area residents will have an opportunity to learn basic principles of safe hunting at a Department of Conservation Hunter Safety Course scheduled for:

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 6 p.m.-9 p.m.

and SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

At

VFW POST #7451
1414 7TH STREET, MADISON, IL

A 1976 State Law requires that all hunters under age 16 successfully complete the hunter safety course before they can receive a hunting license. Participants completing the hunter safety course receive a Hunter Safety Certificate verifying that they have passed the safety instruction.

This will be an excellent opportunity for young hunters who need the course in order to qualify for their first hunting license. It also can be beneficial for beginning hunters over 16, even though they do not require the course to be eligible for a license.

The 10-hour course includes instruction in wildlife management, firearms safety, hunter ethics, game identification, first aid, survival techniques and regulations.

Pretrial release program called invitation to more crime

Some Madison County Board members say a proposed pretrial release program to ease overcrowding at the county jail may mean more crime on the streets.

The concerns surfaced Wednesday as the board met to discuss a proposed fiscal 1992 budget. With the exception of the pretrial release program, board members expressed satisfaction with the proposed $27.2 million budget.

The board's Finance Committee proposes to allocate $177,900 for the pretrial release program, allowing as many as 50 suspects out of jail under strict supervision.

The savings in jail expenses has been estimated at $365,000 per year.

"My concern is that we don't transfer the problem out of the jail and into the community," said board member Albert Charleston, D-Alton. "I'm for any program to relieve the jail problems if it does not transfer the problems to other segments of society."

Board member Don Garrett, D-Madison, said his constituents are fed up with crime and that many feel criminals already are treated too leniently.

Charleston, who chairs the board's Judiciary Committee, said the concerns will be raised when the committee meets next week with Chief Judge Paul Riley.

So far, Charleston said, the proposed program has been described only in a broad outline. He said he wants more details.

Suspects released under the program would be closely monitored and, in some cases, electronic surveillance would be used.

The program was recommended by a committee of county officials who have been examining ways to reduce overcrowding at the jail and to curb costs from high prisoner populations.

The Illinois Legislature authorized pretrial release programs in 1987 and the state has funded programs in several counties. No state money is available for a Madison County program.

Otherwise, the budget proposal appears headed for smooth sailing on its way to final action by the board Nov. 20. The new fiscal year begins Dec. 1.

"This looks good for the people of Madison County," said board member Herschel Beane, R-Godfrey.

County Auditor Fred Bathon said the proposed $18,476,310 general fund budget will result in a tax rate about the same or slightly less than this year's 86 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

In addition to general fund outlays, the overall budget includes expenditures financed through special taxes, grants and state aid.

The budget proposal includes significant increases for the Sheriff's Department, probation department and coroner's office, as well as the pretrial release program.

Most other requests for budget hikes will mostly go unmet, however, as the board faces a predicted decline in revenues during the coming year.

Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer said that if any board member wants to spend more money for some program or department, he or she should suggest where the money would come from.

"Ask them who we're going to take the money away from," Hagnauer said.

69 gain citizenship at ceremony

By Angie Cairns
Staff writer

With cookie in hand Friday, 4-year-old Cory Sang Won Stamps was happy.

The cookie meant more than the naturalization ceremony he had just participated in.

Cory, who now lives in Troy, is originally from Korea.

"He didn't want to do this (go through the ceremony)," said his adoptive mother, Christy Pearson-Stamps of Troy. "I think he thought his face was going to change."

He'd been told that the ceremony would finally make him a U.S. citizen. That led him to assume that he would then look American, his mother said.

But, "Now that he has his cookies he's happy."

Cory has been in the United States a little over two years. His adoptive sister Meghann, 5, is also from Korea and had previously been naturalized.

Knowing his sister hadn't lost her unique Oriental features by becoming a citizen helped convince Cory that he could go through with the ceremony, too, Pearson-Stamps said.

Cory and Meghann have three adoptive brothers — David, 13; Tim, 10; and Matthew, 6. The naturalization ceremony was held Friday morning at Gateway Center in Collinsville. About 69 people went through the ceremony.

Judges James Foreman, William Beatty and William Stiehl presided over the court proceedings.

Teiko McNetsh, originally from Tokyo, Japan, has been in the United States for 35 years. In that time she has been to school, had four children and has become a grandmother.

After all of these exciting events, McNetsh finally became a U.S. citizen Friday.

McNetsh has been living in Collinsville with her husband Eugene for the past 25 years. Their children are Patrick, Joseph, John and Rita.

The 45-minute ceremony included the singing of the national anthem by the Collinsville High School Chorus.

One member of that chorus, Julie Rodriguez of Collinsville, had a special reason to be proud. Her grandmother from Mexico, Maria Jesus Rodriguez, was becoming a U.S. citizen.

Briefly

Pirate treasure topic

"Cataloging Gold Treasure Retrieved from a Pirate Shipwreck off Cape Cod" will be the topic for the Nov. 6 session of the Focus Series at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Focus programs meet Wednesdays at 10 a.m. in the Mississippi-Illinois Rooms of the University Center.

Presenter for the Nov. 6 session will be Martha Ehrlich, assistant professor of art and design at the University.

The session will focus on the discovery of a pirate ship sunk off Cape Cod in 1717, and retrieval from the cargo of pieces of West African gold jewelry from Akan-speaking people of Ghana.

Volunteer Fair planned

In order to promote student volunteerism and to encourage students to become involved in community service, a Volunteer Fair will be conducted on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Nov. 6.

The fair's theme is "Think Globally, Act Locally," and it is being sponsored by the SIUE Information and Volunteer Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Goshen Lounge of SIUE's University Center.

More than 27 community agencies, ranging from Big Brothers and Big Sisters to the Madison County Arts Council to the Madison County AIDS Program, will be participating in the fair.

Colleen Herlihy, coordinator of the SIUE Student Leadership Development Program, said the fair provides an "opportunity for students to find out what's available in the area concerning volunteer opportunities."

The Information and Volunteer Center will act as a volunteer information clearinghouse, providing information on volunteer opportunities to students.

The volunteer program is "a vehicle to allow every student at SIUE to volunteer 30 hours of service a year in accordance with the Illinois Student Volunteer Corps legislation passed in 1989," Herlihy said.

For additional information concerning the Volunteer Fair or volunteer opportunities available to students, the Information and Volunteer Center can be called at 692-2739.

DARE recognition dinner

Police officers and student leaders participating in the DARE school drug awareness program in the Alton-Wood River-Granite City area will be honored at a recognition, and presentation dinner.

The dinner will be held Tuesday, Nov. 5, at the Pancake Ranch in Bethalto.

Sponsored by Hit-N-Run Stores and Pepsi-Cola, the program has been funded by a 10-cent donation from each 44-ounce cup of Pepsi-Cola sold in Hit-N-Run stores.

Checks will be presented to participating officers by John Behrendt, president of Hit-N-Run, and Tim Herrin of Pepsi.

Included will be officers Bill Fitzgerald of Alton, Daron Carlton of East Alton, Mark Carnes of Wood River, Debbie Mitchell of Bethalto, Walter Milton Jr. of Granite City and Richard Farthing of Roxana.

Firefighters promoted in Madison

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Madison aldermen on Tuesday night approved a recommendation by Fire Chief Robbie Robbins to promote Tom Schiller and Raymond Burris, both cadets in the Madison Volunteer Fire Department, to the rank of probationary firefighters.

Both men have completed the necessary requirements for promotion, Robbins told the council. Health Officer Grover Brannan responded to 35 health-related calls in the past two weeks, he reported. He also had four derelict cars moved and prepared one citation for the courts.

Permission was given for volunteers to sell the Suburban Journals' Old Newsboys Day special edition to benefit youth agencies in the Metro East and St. Louis metropolitan area. The annual event will take place Thursday, Nov. 21, from 6 a.m. until noon.

The request came from Thomas E. Rice, president and chief executive officer of the Suburban Journals.

"They have this every year and it's for a good cause," Mayor John Bellcote said.

"They usually do it at Sixth and Madison and on McCambridge Avenue. They don't ask for traffic lights to be changed (to flashing)," Bellcote noted.

Also approved was a request from Lester White, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7451, for the VFW and Auxiliary to sell Buddy Poppies at their traditional Poppy Day sale.

The sale will take place Friday, Nov. 8, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 9, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The veterans' organization will offer the sale at Madison Avenue and Sixth Street.

Dancing teachers — Barbara Heimiedinger, far right, a dance consultant, watches as a group of Granite City District 9 teachers practices a dance they made up as part of developing state goals for dance in fine arts.

Welfare-to-work training offered

The Department of Public Aid has awarded more than $2 million in contracts covering job training, education classes and counseling programs for participants in Project Chance, the state's welfare-to-work program.

Clients will be able to attend classes and workshops to improve their literacy skills, prepare for the General Educational Development (GED) exam, train for jobs as security officers and home aides, train for positions in the hospitality industry and learn the skills needed to cope on the job.

The clients who will be served are recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children at the Madison County Employment and Training Department, Edwardsville, which received $80,143 for job placement assistance.

Emergency youth shelter set to open

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

When the Catholic Social Service's new seven-county emergency youth shelter opens in Belleville in December, the agency will have a big job ahead.

"I think probably the greatest challenge will be serving so many kids (up to 60) in one month," said the center's new administrator, Allen Nelson. The center, located at the former St. Luke's Catholic Church convent, serves an area including Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties. It will provide assessments on children who are removed from their homes in an emergency.

That work will help caseworkers from the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services plot the best course of service for each child.

Many children in that situation now are placed in emergency foster homes, but the CSS center will offer even more service.

"What's different is that we're a professional staff," Nelson said. "We're paid to take care of kids and we'll have a professional social worker on staff."

"We're trained in behavioral changes, assessments and some things foster homes can't give."

Dental and medical care will also be provided to the children. Another advantage is that the center will be accessible to handicapped children, he said.

A hospital bed, accessible shower and bathroom facility are available for one child. Three areas for handicapped infants and toddlers will be developed.

Nelson helped open a program for sexually abused girls in Centralia three years ago, but the Belleville center will be "really unique" for him.

"Not many centers open from the ground up," he said. "It gives us an opportunity to do some neat things. We're even starting from scratch with our hiring."

Nelson brings numerous years of experience in children's services to the job. Most recently, he was program consultant for the United Methodist Children's Home in Mount Vernon.

He has a bachelor's degree in administration of justice with a concentration in juvenile delinquency and youth crimes from the University of Missouri at St. Louis and a master's degree in child and youth care administration from Nova University in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Nelson also has certificates in sexual abuse training and consultation supervision from Father Flanagan's Boy's Home (Boy's Town) in Nebraska.

Joining Nelson at the youth center will be an assistant administrator and a social worker who have just been hired. Twenty other slots are open as well.

Some may be eligible for school transportation reimbursement

Parents or legal guardians who must provide transportation to and from school, because free transportation is not available for their children, may be eligible to receive money from the state to help offset the cost.

Money is available, for example, for bus or mileage reimbursement for private cars.

Those who can answer "yes" to the following questions for the 1991-92 school year may be eligible to receive reimbursement.

1. Will the pupil be under the age of 21 at the close of the school year?

2. Is the pupil a full-time student in grades kindergarten through 12?

3. Does the pupil either live

1½ miles or more from school or live less than 1½ miles from school but must be transported due to a serious safety hazard approved by the Illinois Department of Transportation?

4. Does the pupil attend a school within Illinois which meets Illinois compulsory attendance laws?

5. Did the parent/guardian incur transportation expenses resulting from transporting the pupil to and from school?

If you answered yes to the above questions, live in Illinois and wish to file a claim, you must go to the school where each of your children is enrolled by June 30, 1992, to complete a claim application. Claim forms should be available from February 1992 through June 30, 1992.

In addition, parents/guardians who have pupils living less than 1½ miles from the school attended must verify that a safety hazard due to vehicular traffic exists by completing an "Application for Determination of Serious Safety Hazard" by Feb. 1.

This form may be obtained from Harry A. Briggs, Regional Superintendent of Schools, 201 Hillsboro, Edwardsville 62025 or call 692-6200, extension 4641.

Local Scouts are hoping to surpass last year's food collection haul

An estimated 10,000 Scouts and adult leaders will canvas the nine-county Okaw Valley Scout Council next Saturday, Nov. 9, in support of the fourth annual Scouting for Food National Good Turn.

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers will work this event, hoping to match or exceed last year's council collection total of 250,000 food items. The Scouts want canned goods—such as soups, beef stew, chili, canned meats and fish, canned vegetables, canned fruit, etc. They ask that you not include perishables, frozen, or in glass.

There's an environmental twist to the Okaw Valley Council's drive this year. Prior to the drive, Scouts will distribute handbills throughout the council advertising the Nov. 9 food pick-up. The handbills are printed on recycled paper to conserve natural resources and to show concern for the environment. In addition, the Scouts are asking donors to recycle paper bags, cardboard boxes, or plastic bags from the cupboard or pantry for their food donations. This will eliminate the process of Scouts hanging plastic collection bags on doors, many of which get caught in the Autumn winds or become the target of vandals.

Donors should place their bag or box of canned goods outside their front door by 9 a.m. on Nov. 9. Scouts will pick up the bag between 9 a.m. and noon. If there is a problem with a collection, donors may call the council service center at 234-9111.

"We perceive the need for food donations is greater this year because of the economy and unemployment through the council. Recent surveys indicate a sharp increase in demand for food at area food pantries," said Gene Stone, Scout Executive of Okaw Valley Council.

Donated food is sorted and boxed and then supplied to appropriate agencies for distribution to the needy in the same communities in which it was collected.

Garden Study Club plans events

The Garden Study Club held its October meeting at Shoney's Restaurant on Nameoki Road. Those present were Irene Daroghazi, Jean Holder, Mary Kelly, Catherine Kostoff, Helen Meyer, Marie Oetken, Ruth Polson, Bonnie Rutkowski, Mary Stonum and Clara Winter. Stonum called the meeting to order, and the club collect was recited in unison.

Meyer held roll call and it was answered to "Give a Gardening Tip." A "Thank You" card was received from Virginia Kauffold, chairman of the District V Flower Show, thanking those who participated to make the show a success.

The club also sent a sympathy card to Cahokia Garden Club in memory of the late Penny Price, a member who will be missed.

Stonum and Winter reported on the District V Flower Show held in September at Eden Village Retirement Center in Edwardsville. The two women displayed the ribbons they had won for their horticulture entries.

Stonum read a program called "The Gourd" that told of gourds found in tombs in Egypt dating from the pre-dynastic period 4,000-3,600 B.C. Gourds also were used by ancient Aztec, Mayan and Inca peoples and were prominent in Chinese religion, philosophy and ceremonies. The Tewa medicine man ground the roots of the wild gourd into powder, stirred it in cold water and drank it as a laxative, it was learned.

For exhibit, Winter displayed a beautiful vase of fall flowers and a vase of blooming herbs.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 6 at 11 a.m. at Shoney's Restaurant on Nameoki Road. Names will be drawn for the December Christmas party and gift exchange.

President's Council Day will be held at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road, on Oct. 24. The host group will be Cloverview Garden Club of Granite City. Registration is 9:30 a.m. with the call to order at 10 a.m. Reservations for lunch, costing $8, should be turned in to club presidents.

Young people who can meet the Army's physical and aptitude standards may call Stunkel at 676-5850 to learn more about Army opportunities.

He has information on the Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP), in which a recruit can take up to 365 days after enlisting before beginning active duty; the Army College Fund, in which an enlistee can accumulate as much as $25,200 toward future college expenses; and the GI Bill.

He also has information on other educational aid.

Stunkel's awards and decorations include four Army Achievement Medals; two Army Commendation Medals; two Good Conduct Medals; and the Army Service Ribbon.

Stunkel is a 1974 graduate of Triad High School, St. Jacob, and enlisted in the Army in December 1984. He took his basic and advanced individual training at Fort McClellan, Ala.

His other military schools include the Military Police Course, the Traffic Investigation Course, the Physical Security Inspector Course, and Army Recruiter School.

No Newspaper is entirely perfect for errors will creep in. Sometimes wrong information is sent by someone's nearest kin. And even printers make mistakes for which they tear their hair. Sometimes two people disagree on who or when or where.

It might have been the person who wrote the history. It might have been the typist or blame can fall on me. So if you're dead before you're born or married when you're three Or if I've omitted anyone who sent themselves to me, Or if your last name is not your own, and pictures not too good, I ask you...please forgive me, I did the best I could! ### School resource directory Teachers of all kinds — as well as those who work with children in volunteer capacities — may be interested in a new directory put together recently by a local education student.

Elizabeth Jill Wamble, of Edwardsville has compiled a resource directory for elementary and secondary teachers. It will also be useful for teachers at day care centers, Scout troop leaders, church organizations and other groups that work with children.

Wamble is a senior at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, majoring in education.

The booklet, the Supplemental Classroom Guide, contains information relating to lesson-planning, available resources, curriculum guides, instructional materials, and other resources available to teachers free of charge from federal and state agencies, research centers, foundations, universities, commissions and private industries around the country.

The resource includes catalogs on new products, software, books, filmstrips, cassettes, transparencies, reading programs, and video tapes available to teachers.

In addition, it contains helpful hints for teachers with limited budgets, as well as educational maps, charts, posters, brochures, coloring books, puzzles, craft booklets and numerous other resources.

Additional information on the resource directory may be obtained by contacting Wamble at 692-6906.

Labor board accuses Belle of unfair practices
The owners of the Alton Belle Casino have been accused of unfair labor practices in a complaint issued by the National Labor Relations Board.
The complaint alleges Alton Belle Casino, a subsidiary of the Alton Belle Casino, Inc., and some of its managers broke the law several times to help the Seafarers International Union, which is the bargaining agent for about 150 of the employees of the boat and its floating dock by any individual, club, organization or society. The NLRB investigation into charges of unfair labor practices from the rival Hotel Employees and Restaurant Employees International Union.
Thomas Hanley, a vice president of the hotel and restaurant union, said Thursday the NLRB complaint supported his union's charges "that there was some kind of cooperation between the management and the (Seafarers) union."
Hanley said he hoped the election in the workers in the gambling operations could choose between the Seafarers and his union. He wouldn't predict the union would win, but he said, "I think these people (NLRB officials) see we are trying to do the right thing."
A hearing before an NLRB administrative law judge has been scheduled Jan. 13 in St. Louis.
Neither the gambling partnership's chief financial officer, J. Thomas Long, nor company spokesman John Reichert returned calls. Long said previously the Chicago law firm representing the partnership in the NLRB case had advised him not to publicly comment.
The NLRB complaint charges the management of the Alton Belle has "interfered with, restrained, and coerced, and is interfering with, restraining and coercing employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed in the National Labor Relations Act." It also charges the partnership

According to Schaffer, 45 of the residents tested showed blood lead levels exceeding 10 micrograms per deciliter.
Five of the 45 showed lead levels exceeding 25 micrograms per deciliter and have been advised to notify their physician immediately, Schaffer said.

He noted that all 45 who exceeded the 10 micrograms per deciliter level were between the ages of six months and six years.
Children are much more susceptible to problems related to lead exposure because adult bodies absorb and metabolize the metal more effectively, Schaffer said.

Kaburek said that, although residents are allowed to walk in and out of the intermediate care facility, Hurst, an Alzheimer's patient, was not to be allowed outdoors without supervision. He said she had attempted to leave on prior occasions.
An attendant is on duty at the front desk from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., according to Kaburek, and all doors have an alarm.
"If an alarm sounds, we find them," he said.
Police officers found the body after being notified by a resident of the 2600 block of Donald Court of an object in the field.
After discovering that the object was a body, the department called Colonial Haven to ask if any residents were missing.

Kaburek said the nursing home staff was in the process of searching the building for Hurst when the police called.

Maxwell unopposed for BAC board

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Residents of the Granite City area are in Belleville Area College Subdistrict 6 and are eligible to vote Nov. 5 for BAC Board of Trustees candidates in that subdistrict. Subdistrict 6 covers the southwestern portion of Madison County.

One seat on the seven-member board is available for each subdistrict. The seat for Subdistrict 6 is a six-year term. The candidate for Subdistrict 6, Robert Maxwell, is running unopposed.

Maxwell, 48, of Granite City has served on the BAC board of trustees for the past two years.

He and his wife, Jean, have one grown son, David.
As the public relations manager of National Steel Corp. in Granite City and as a former vocational education instructor and administrator, Maxwell thinks that BAC is a strong force in vocational education.

"I think that the community college has a definite role in education for business and industry," he said.
Maxwell is a past member of the Granite City Board of Education.
One of the things he would like to concentrate on in the future is freeing up funds from the state to continue with a proposed vocational education center at the Granite City Campus of BAC.

Another problem he would like to work on is the overcrowded classes at all three of the campuses, Belleville, Granite City, and Red Bud. In the future, he predicts the community college extension centers will become more important as enrollment increases.

Also, Maxwell thinks that, as the cost of higher education continues to rise, more and more people will be turning to community colleges before going on to four-year universities.

Dorchester and his wife, Kathleen, reside in Granite City. They have two sons, Brian and David, and a daughter, Jackie Jones. There also are two grandchildren, Kyle and Kathryn, two years old.

Reese Drugs operated four stores locally and about 15 stores statewide. Only one is left at Tri-City Grocery, Reese Drugs and Glik's Department Store used to be the three biggest retailers in the area, Dorchester recalled. Now, only Glik's remains and has grown substantially.

"I'm back in my old store, and very happy to be here," Dorchester said.

to lay anyone off, especially during the holidays, but I won't spend money I don't have, either."

"But I'm not going to cut into the money for the project. If I did something that stupid, you should fire me."

Greathouse said he keeps all the tax money collected for the rehabilitation project in its own accounts, separate from the MESD's operating funds. Even then, he said, the Corps of Engineers is not always happy.

"They want me to give the money directly to the Corps," he said. "But I told them I'm not paying for anything until it's done. My way, I've got the money earning us interest and the bills as they come due."

Greathouse said he will put money into escrow accounts for the Corps for specific projects and has agreed to obtain a letter of credit for the current shortfall.

"We will probably recommend that those children be screened again for anything until it's done," Schaffer said. "The overwhelming majority of the other 40" who exceeded the new standard showed levels between 10-15 micrograms per deciliter.

Schaffer said IDPH is not yet reaching any conclusions regarding the source of the poisoning in the youths, and that a written report of all conclusions will be available about a year from now.

Asked if the 5 percent figure would be above or below what he would expect to find in other urban, industrial areas, Schaffer said, "That would be impossible to say. Each community is different. It really depends on the environmental factors."

Women tour pre-Civil War log village

Maxine Duniphan covers the Mitchell area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 931-2714.

Oliver Joyner and friend Jeanne-Dorsch spent the weekend of Oct. 11-13 in the Salem, Ill., area. They also visited points of interest in Kimmunity and Edgewood, Ill.

At Kimmunity, Oliver and Jeanne visited Ingram's Log Cabin Village, a community of authentic pre-Civil War log structures. These cabins were bought by the Ingrams from various home sites in Marion County, Ill., then torn down and moved to the present site and reconstructed on the rolling hills near Kimmunity. Several of the cabins are furnished with period furniture.

The main building is a two-story log structure, holding antiques and a souvenir shop. The building is operated by volunteers dressed in apparel of that era, who are ready and willing to answer questions that visitors may have about the village and its founders.

The cabins are situated in a forested area. As visitors walk the trail from one cabin to another they can shop or browse at any of the craft and demonstration booths that line the trail throughout the months of September and October.

Not to be overlooked is the beautiful fall foliage that makes this rustic area a perfect setting for the many visitors from all over the country who stroll these hills each year.

On their travels, Oliver and Jeanne met some friends who accompanied them to the Edgewood Country Music Show, at Edgewood, Ill.

The music show, in a barn-loft setting, features local talent. The loft (stage) was replete with bales of hay, chickens and soft cuddly kittens to complete the setting.

Oliver and Jeanne also took great pleasure in sharing time with their friends as they dined at the local restaurants.

Girl Scout Troop 210 held an overnight campout at the Ida O. Keck Camp Grounds on Oct. 18.

There the girls participated in a service project that included painting the lodge's screened in porch and staining a picnic table.

Scouts participating in the work-campout were Amy Skalsky, Amanda Soltanic, Amanda Taylor, Brandi Barton, Jessica Mefford, Natalie Denny and Vicky Hosty.

Adult leaders assisting with the service project were Cindy Mefford, Barb Skalsky, Carol Denny, Bev Hosty and Tracy Hosty.

Theresa Branch is announcing the birth of her baby girl born Oct. 10 at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The baby weighed 8 pounds, 6 ounces. She was 20-inches long and has been named Tamara Jane.

Tamara's maternal grandparents are David and Janie Conner. Her maternal great-grandparents are Doris and Celis, and she also has an aunt Brandy Conner.

Another Legend in the making?

It was time to put up or shut up.

After hearing so much about the wiffleball prowess of Jerry "The Legend" Coyle and Darren "The Natural" Bone, it was only logical that yours truly should test his not-so-formidable skill against these two aces.

And so it was one late afternoon the week before last (just before the never-ending rain and cloudy skies moved in) that your friendly neighborhood sports editor graced the batter's box at Lakeside Park, the Taj Mahal of wiffleball stadiums constructed by Coyle behind his father's mechanical supply business on Highway 162.

Having just listened to The Legend dismiss slow-pitch softball only moments before as nothing more than a sissy-boy game, I wasn't about to admit that virtually all of my batting experience in 30 years on this Earth had been you-know-what.

I had played a little wiffleball in the backyard, but The Legend and The Natural are clearly wiffleball royalty, having led the Lakeside Series to the World Series of Wiffleball title only two days earlier.

Though I think of myself as a switch-hitter (that makes me sound like I actually know what I'm doing), I stepped in left-handed against The Legend, even though he throws lefty. I'm naturally righthanded, but when I pick up a bat I usually hold it as a lefthander first. I feel like I have a more controlled swing from the left side (uh-huh). When I enter those high-powered home run contests (yeah, right), I'll move over to the right side and become a combined Fielder/Caneado.

The Legend claims to have a bad rotator cuff, but he gave it his best shot. The first few pitches were an enlightening experience. The Legend could really bring it, although his control left a lot to be desired.

But no matter how hard a wiffleball appears to be coming, hang in there. Even if it hits you square, you don't feel it. I became convinced that when the third pitch got me right in the shoulder.

After taking several more pitches out of the strike zone, I finally connected. It headed

On hold — Josh Neidhardt and the Warrior soccer team had plenty of time to decide on the right shoes for the Collinsville Sectional. Semifinal action was postponed Thursday and Friday due to rain and cold weather. Granite City was scheduled to play Highland at 2 p.m. Saturday in Collinsville. The sectional final is now set for 7 p.m. Monday, with the Granite City Super-Sectional still scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at The Gauntlet.

Barzoffs, Dixon enjoy perfect racing season

Charlie and Sandy Barzoff of Granite City enjoyed a perfect 1991 auto racing season with the help of their driver, Ed Dixon.

The Barzoffs are the owners of B Auto Parts and also own two modified racing cars and one late model stock car. The Barzoff-Dixon team claimed five championships in 1991. They won the Belle-Clear Speedway track championship in Belleville; the 1-55 Raceway championship in Pevely, Mo.; the overall championship in the Allied Auto Racing Association modifieds as well as the W.I.L. Radio trophy dash championship; and the St. Charles (Mo.) Speedway track championship.

The Barzoffs and Dixon (from Washington, Mo.) had a total of 24 feature event wins, 20 heat race wins and eight trophy dash wins. Dixon, 37, has been driving race cars for 19 years. He won his 300th career race this year.

The cars are sponsored by B Auto Parts, Althoff Trucking Co. of Highridge, Mo., Heimy's Bar & Grill in Collinsville, the H.W.

Herrill Distributing Co. of Imperial, Mo., and the Kinn Racing Engines of St. Louis. The car used at Belle-Clear is a converted 1991 Camaro and is nicknamed "Wizmo." The car used at the 1-55 Raceway is a 1991 Pontiac and is nicknamed "Moose." Both cars are powered by Kinn racing engines.

The pit crew consists of Mike Coulter and Rick Woody of Washington, Mo.; Jim Wilson and Tim Snell of Granite City;

Jeff Sehl of St. Charles, Mo.; and Darrell Hoffman of Belleville.

The team had little time to spend with the late model stock car this year, but had success in a few races. The Barzoffs and Dixon have been teamed up for three years and have won championships each season. The cars are housed and maintained in a large NASCAR-type garage in Granite City.

8-1 Warriors make Lancers fall short

By Brian Henry Correspondent

The Warriors ruined Belleville East's hopes for the playoffs with a 21-17 victory on a frigid Friday night.

Last year, the Lancers thumped the Warriors 47-6 to deny them a spot in the playoffs. The tables were turned as Granite City's ball-control offense worked to near-perfection. A mixture of occasional snow flurries and a wind chill factor in single digits played havoc with any type of passing game East would have tried.

"We thought we could have done some passing, but Granite City put a lot of pressure on Robb (Hill) all night," said Lancer coach Mike McGinnis, whose team ends the season at 5-4. "They played solid defense and their offense was able to hang on to the ball."

"Ball control is the name of our game," Warrior coach Tom Wyrostek said. "We do that to try to get the other team out of its game plan."

East fell behind 7-0 on a three-yard first-quarter touchdown run by Mike Vaughn, who had 123 yards and two touchdowns on 20 carries. But on the ensuing kick-off, Lamont Fallon hit a seam and sprinted 70 yards to tie the game with 8:05 remaining in the opening quarter. After trading punts, East set up shop at its own 24 with 2:35 remaining.

Five plays later, James Cotton took off on a 63-yard touchdown run with six seconds left in the period to give the Lancers a 14-7 advantage.

"We had a couple guys make some big plays," said McGinnis. "We thought if we could get them out of their game we would have a chance. But they were able to come back."

On the first play of the second quarter, Mike Stark recovered a fumbled snap by Drake Marshall and East had the ball at the Warrior 27. The Lancers were able to get to the Granite City 15, and Matt Russell booted a 32-yard field goal to give East a 17-7 lead.

It looked like an upset in the making, but the Warriors weren't about to relive bad memories of the past four seasons' fumbles, all Lancer victories. Vaughn scored his second touchdown to make it a 17-14 game, with 3:04 remaining in the half. He finished off an 11-play, 66-yard drive when he bulldozed over three would-be tacklers for a 15-yard touchdown.

"Last year they came out and got ahead of us early and we couldn't do anything," said Vaughn. "This time we didn't get down and came back. We were embarrassed last year and we weren't going to let it happen again."

East dodged a bullet when it fumbled away the following kick-off and the Warriors took over at the Lancer 37. They drove to the 22 with 37 seconds left in the half, but Les Nunes threw an interception on a halfback option and the threat.

"That would have been a touchdown if the wind hadn't held it," said Wyrostek.

straight for the 105 mark of Lakeside's "Busch Stadium" wall in right-center field. It landed about 15 feet short of the mark.

Dave! I had been over on my power side, I have little doubt I could have matched the record 167-foot blast I checked off by Rod "Busey" Street at Lakeside last year.

Actually, I have a lot of doubt about that.

But I was wishing Warrior baseball coach Bob Stegemeier or Post 113 manager Ralph Burnett had seen it. The guy who covers their games has at least a small fraction of the ability of their players.

A very small fraction, to be sure.

"Some of Burnett's boys came out here during the summer, and they started hitting better in their games," said The Legend. "Drake Marshall is a real good wiffleball player. (Chris) Gumbly Hill was out here a lot, too. He helped us on the P.A. system during the World Series."

Ah, there's the secret of the Triplets' merry ride to second place in the state tournament this summer. Better baseball through wiffleball.

The Legend stepped in to take a few swings against The Natural. He began to find the range which helped him blast 97 homers last year. Then it was my turn to step in against the Natural.

"The Natural can throw strikes in his sleep," said The Legend.

And what a site he is. With a ripped T-shirt, jeans and a cigarette dangling from his lips, The Natural doesn't exactly look like Steve Avery out there, although somehow you could picture Jack Morris this way.

But what a variety of pitches! Throwing sidearm, The Natural can make a wiffleball move in, oh, six or seven different directions on one 47-foot pitch. It made Phil Niekro's best knuckleball look straight. The Natural wasn't throwing as hard as The Legend was, and eventually I made contact a couple of times and sent another into the outfield, falling short of the fence by 20 feet this time.

So there, I was able to connect off the fireballer AND the crafty sidearm. Maybe it's a new career in the making.

I'll need a nickname. No one has one for me yet — at least not to my knowledge.

IHSA hoops finals holding three-point, dunk contests

Slam dunk and three-point shooting contests will be part of the IHSA Class AA basketball state finals, weekend in Champaign next March.

The competition will be open to all boys except those who are members of the eight Class AA final teams, according to IHSA Executive Director Dave Fry. Preliminaries will be held Thursday, March 19, with the finals on Saturday. The tournament is March 20-21.

Also on tap for the weekend is a shootaround for the eight finalists late Thursday afternoon, and reunions for players and others, particularly from the schools which were members of the "Sweet Sixteen" 25 years ago.

"We are excited about the potential of these new events," said Fry. "Our goal is to generate renewed interest and enthusiasm for the state tournament. We think these new events will help."

Certainly they will enable us to enhance our telecast of the tournament. Considering last year's telecast was awarded an Emmy, we've got high standards to maintain."

Final plans for each of the events are still to be developed. "We do know that we will be able to attend the shootaround and the prelims of the slam dunk and three-point shooting contests on Thursday for free," said Fry. "We're conducting both the Class A and Class AA events on Thursday for free."

The tentative schedule provides for prelims in both classes to be held Thursday. Qualifiers return Saturday. Class A and Class AA champions will be determined during the Saturday afternoon semifinal session.

King of the Hill in both contests (Class A vs. Class AA champions in both events) will be crowned between the third place and championship games Saturday night.

thought it was important for us to be able to beat a team that had a lot to play for, when we really didn't. We took something away from them."

The Warriors controlled the ball for much of the fourth quarter, but the Lancers put one final drive together. They converted two fourth-down plays and got to the Warriors 25 before time expired on their playoff aspirations.

"We went out the way we've played all year — scrambling and fighting," said McGinnis. "I'm not disappointed with 5-4. Considering the teams we lost to, we have nothing to be ashamed of."

and half with the ball at its own 24. Damon Yates, who finished with 96 yards, rambling 28 yards on second down to put the ball at the Lancer 45. A holding penalty put the Warriors at their own 45, but a pass play put them ahead for good.

On third and 21, Marshall was flushed out of the pocket on a screen play but still was able to throw across the field to a wide open Yates. Yates, sprung by a big block from center Jeff Heuschman, took off for a 55-yard touchdown. Yates' go-ahead play proved to be the final points. "We weren't excited when they got ahead on us," said Wyrostek. "We had a lot of time left. I

Seafood and pasta hold appeal with buttery, seasoned sauces

Many people love to eat butter for its flavor. Freshly cooked vegetables with a pat on top, holiday cookies and special occasion meals are enhanced by it.

Fresh fish and shellfish have special appeal when served with a simple herb butter sauce. Pasta, a food star in recent years, is delicious when tossed with butter and cheese.

An easy to prepare butter-chive sauce, accented with fresh lemon juice and chopped pecans, can be used as both a basting and serving sauce for orange roughy or other fish filets. The sauce is brushed over the fish before baking and then is spooned over each serving. It is a simple, attractive way to serve fish.

Pasta with Pesto Sauce is a favorite dish in America. This version has a base of butter and parmesan cheese. Fresh parsley and garlic enhance the flavor. When fresh basil is available, the parsley is unnecessary. Serve the sauce over freshly cooked pasta for a hearty supper dish or as an accompaniment to grilled meat, fish or poultry.

Butter-sauced seafood

1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
2 tbsp. chopped pecans
1 tsp. minced fresh chives
1/2 tsp. fresh lemon juice
1/4 lb. orange roughy or fresh white fish

Salt and pepper

For sauce, melt butter in small saucepan. Stir in pecans, chives and lemon juice.

Place fish filets in shallow pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Brush liberally with sauce. Bake in 350° oven 10 to 12 minutes until fish flakes easily when pierced with fork.

Spoon additional sauce over each serving. Serve immediately. Makes 3 servings; 267 calories, 17 g protein, 20 g fat and 1 g carbohydrate each.

Pasta with pesto sauce

1/2 cup snipped fresh parsley (see note)

1 1/2 tbsp. dried basil
2 tbsp. silvered almonds or pine nuts
1 small clove garlic
Pinch salt
3/4 cup butter, melted, cooled
3/8 cup grated parmesan cheese
5 oz. uncooked pasta

Cook pasta according to package directions. Drain.

Place parsley, basil, nuts, garlic and salt in work bowl of food processor or blender container. Process, scraping down ingredients frequently, until all ingredients are finely chopped. Add butter and cheese. Process until well mixed.

To serve, stir 1 to 2 teaspoons hot water into pesto sauce until well mixed.

Place hot pasta in warm bowl. Spoon pesto over pasta, tossing to coat well. Serve immediately.

Note: If fresh basil is available, substitute 1 cup loosely packed fresh basil for parsley and dried basil.

Makes 3 servings; 268 calories, 9 g protein, 16 g fat and 16 g carbohydrate each.

Figs loaded with fiber, potassium

By Patricia Abels
Registered Dietitian
American Heart Association
St. Louis Chapter

Don't turn up your nose, don't turn up your toes at figs—fabulous, fat-free figs. These delicious morsels add taste and texture to everything from breads and muffins to baked sweet potatoes and chicken salad.

Prominent in Middle Eastern and Mediterranean cultures, figs are an Asian native, considered a delicacy for more than 5,000 years. Modern-day cooks often substitute the more popular raisins, dates and prunes for figs in recipes. However, given the wonderful nutritional and taste benefits, dried figs are one fruit to consider adding to the next chicken salad.

Although fresh figs are not common in most American markets, dried figs are readily available and are nutritional powerhouses. Virtually fat- and sodium-free, each 40-calorie fig is packed with 3.4 grams dietary fiber. This goes a long way in helping reach the recommended 20 grams fiber per day.

Figs are a good source of iron, calcium and potassium. Bananas often are considered the potassium leader, but ounce-for-ounce figs have almost twice the potassium.

Dried figs are preferable to candy for a sweet snack. When added to unsweetened, dry cereal, they are tastier and healthier than commercially sweetened cereals. They also can be chopped, cooked and added to hot cereal or fruit compote for a poultry or meat accompaniment.

Another advantage of dried figs is that they are available year-round, not subject to spoilage and keep many months without refrigeration. Store dried figs in tightly sealed plastic bags to keep them from further drying and hardening.

A word of caution from Grandma. She was right when she said dried fruits have a laxative effect. When incorporating more dried fruits in daily eating habits, begin slowly. First, try adding them to recipes before eating them by the handful.

Yam bake a la orange

2 large (1 lb. each) yams, boiled, peeled, sliced 1/4 inch thick
2 oranges, peeled, sliced
1/2 cup dried figs, sliced crosswise in fourths
1/4 cup walnut pieces
2 tbsp. margarine, melted
1 tsp. honey
1 tsp. grated orange peel

Arrange yams, oranges and figs in 8-inch round baking pan. Sprinkle with walnuts.

Combine margarine, honey and orange peel. Pour over yam mixture. Cover with foil. Bake in 350° oven about 30 minutes until bubbly.

Yields 8 servings; 244 calories, 5.4 g fat, no cholesterol and 49 mg sodium each.

Orange roughy with butter-chive sauce is a simple, flavorful entree.

Theater offers training

The New Theater (TNT) is accepting applications for the Culturally Diverse Apprenticeship Program (CDAP) for 1992. CDAP provides professional experience and training in design and technical theater for young adults while promoting cultural diversity in the St. Louis theater community.

"The pilot program last season was an inspiration to everyone who worked with the apprentices," said TNT artistic director Agnes Wilcox. "Take four young people who dream of working in the professional theater, add some designers and managers with years of experience, stir gently—and you've got magic."

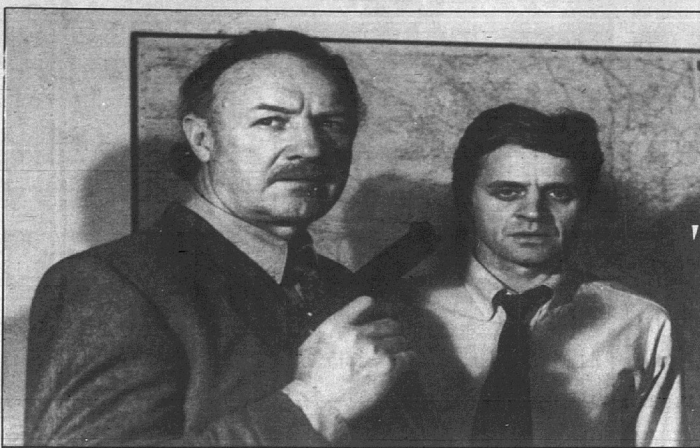

CDAP provides an opportunity for young people from diverse backgrounds to get paid experience in the theater and is a first step in creating a group of trained technicians and designers from which all St. Louis theaters can draw.

During their 20-week paid internships, apprentices work directly with professional designers, technicians and managers on two shows. They receive practical experience in skills ranging from scenic, costume and lighting design, stage management, production management and technical direction.

"The program is designed to give young adults well-rounded theater experience," said Wilcox. "They may have different amounts of training when they leave the program, but they'll leave with a basic concept of the jobs available and the skills required in professional theater. Depending on their level of skill when they came to us, they may be ready to work for TNT or another professional theater."

There will be six apprenticeships available. Priority will be given to applicants from diverse ethnic backgrounds such as African-American, Asian-American, Latin-American, native American, women, persons with a disability and persons who have no other way to further their theater training and experience. "The program is aimed primarily at college students and recent graduates, but we welcome others as well," said Wilcox.

Applications are due by Dec. 3, 1991. Final selection of apprentices for the program, which runs from Jan. 6 to May 2, 1992, will be made by Dec. 6. For more information or to receive detailed application criteria, call 531-8330.

In "Company Business," Gene Hackman, left, play a CIA agent, and Mikhail Baryshnikov, plays a KGB agent.

Politics hurt 'Company Business'

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Recent events in the Soviet Union have made the screenplay of the new film "Company Business" a little dated. The movie, a product of one of Hollywood's most financially troubled studios, MGM-Pathe, was made during the spring of 1990.

Its opening was postponed while the company raised cash for marketing and distribution. The delay causes lines in the film like "Gorbachev may not be around that long" to sound funny instead of climactic.

Gene Hackman stars in "Company Business" as an ex-CIA agent on the downside of his career. Doing industrial espionage to make a living, Hackman is recruited by the CIA for a special assignment. They ask him to escort a former KGB informer, played by Mikhail Baryshnikov, and $2 million dollars in cash. They go to Berlin where an exchange is planned for a captured CIA agent.

The swap is a flop and soon Hackman and Baryshnikov, who have become friends during their travels, find that they are the objects of an international manhunt by both the KGB and the CIA.

"Company Business" has a plot similar to a film Hackman did six years ago called "Target." This time, "Company Business" is a story of two experienced hands at espionage using old friends and unsophisticated methods to outwit a much younger and technically advantaged group of professional agents who seem certain to catch them.

Hackman displays his usual mix of charm and sincere dramatic thrust that illuminates every role he does. Baryshnikov is a little more subdued, but still effective.

The problem with "Company Business" is one of the credibility of its story. You'll have to forget a lot of what has happened in 1991 to get very excited about this film.

Rated PG-13 (language, intense action scenes) Running time: 96 minutes.
